The staff love their novel workmate.

Dinah-Lee at the Takapuna branch in 1989.

The proud mum says kids treat Koko like "a famous star".

Doggone cute... KOKO'S ALL BOOKED UP!

People come to the library to check out books and the friendly pooch

It's often hard to get good help these days, but 10-year-old Koko makes the paw-fect library assistant.

For the most part, she sits in the back offices of Auckland Council's Northcote Library, but is regularly brought out to give hugs to library-goers or sneak a belly rub while she helps her "mum" do shelving.

She also happily provides a listening ear to children who are reluctant readers and even has her own sign outside the front doors.

Becoming the library's Wellbeing Rufficer – yes, that's what her name badge reads – began five years ago, when Koko's owner, Dinah-Lee Tui, told her manager she needed to rush home at lunchtime to let her dog out for toilet duties.

"My manager said, 'Oh, bring the dog in!' and since then, I'd like to think Koko has made a big impact here," says Dinah-Lee.

"She calms everything down and has helped to improve the wellbeing of not only staff, but everyone she comes into contact with."

"The regular customers always ask for her – it's like a fix for them. They might live alone or aren't able to have a pet, so they need that hug from her. You can hear the tremble in their voice."

"If they've recently had a dog pass away, they sit there and talk to her about their loss. She's like a friend to them, who gives them unconditional support."

During the Weekly's interview in the children's area, as Koko sits quietly with her leash on and tail wagging, different people come up to say hello and pat her.

Dinah-Lee, 57, describes her gentle 35kg – a chocolate labrador crossed with a German wirehaired pointer – as made for "library life".

"Koko is such a quiet soul, who minds her own business and will be your best friend if she sniffs food on you!"

"When I got her as a rescue pup, she came to me not knowing how to be a dog. I'd throw a tennis ball and she'd just look at me. I'd say, 'This is where you run after it.'

"But now in the mornings, before the library is open to the public, she has a little ball chase. I throw the tennis ball and she runs like a greyhound around the library. When the public doors are open, that's when we stop and she lies in the back room."

On the three days Koko's at the library, local Northcote Intermediate students come in during class time.

"They all ask, 'Where's Koko?' She'll just sit there with them in a circle while they all pat her – lapping up all the attention."

Dinah-Lee says Koko encourages kids to come in and read, and also helps educate children – and adults – about how to deal with dogs.

"I'm always open to having children come and read to Koko. One girl comes in every day during the school holidays to do that – however, I like to be present for the safety of both the child and Koko."

"I also regularly take her to do readings at The Orchards retirement village and nearby Onepoto Primary School. I put an invisible line between us and the students, and tell them to stay behind the line. But they always inch forward to her."

"They're meant to be listening to my story, but they're all staring, fixated on Koko, like she's a famous star!"

Dinah-Lee has been a library assistant for more than 30 years. Raised by her grandparents in Otara, the young bookworm moved to the North Shore as a teenager.

"I've always loved reading and worked at my school library at Takapuna Grammar School during my rostered lunchtimes."

At the end of her second year redoing fifth form, she spied an advertisement for a trainee librarian and got her English teacher to help with her job application. Dinah-Lee went for an interview in her school uniform and began work the following week.

Koko's the first dog

she's ever owned and has instantly captured her heart.

"I call her my therapist," enthuses Dinah-Lee. "If you have a bad day at work, you can just say, 'I've got to go now because I've got an appointment with my therapist.' Then I add, 'It's free! I'm walking with my dog.'"

Fleur Guthrie

Reading to dogs

Reading out loud can be a difficult skill to develop for many children.

Reading therapy dogs provide support by helping the reader feel less nervous and build fluency as they tell a story to a canine companion.

There are a number of library-based Reading to Dogs programmes around the country, including Christchurch City Libraries, whose furry friends are all trained and tested for health, safety and temperament. Library staff and a dog handler are present at all times to help facilitate the sessions.

Taranaki-based charitable trust We Love Dogs also runs a programme which provides a relaxed, non-judgemental atmosphere for children to practice their reading skills.

New Zealand Border Inspection
新西兰机场海关入境物品检查

When you travel to and arrive in New Zealand, you must know New Zealand border control regulations, e.g. what you can bring in, what you must declare and how.

隨著新年假期和學校假期即將到來，您大概已經安排好了海外旅行行程。當您返回和抵達紐西蘭時，您必須知道紐西蘭的入境要求。如哪些物品可以帶入，哪些需要申報以及如何申報。為幫助您海外旅行后順利而愉快地進入新西蘭，Glenfield 圖書館邀請新西蘭海關和移民及海關人員來為大家講解最新的入境通知并回答您的提問，歡迎大家蒞臨。

Strengthening the Wellbeing of People and Communities

WHO ARE WE?

A community mental wellbeing organisation that generates strong population health outcomes by providing community-based mental health support

BY:

Connecting people to resources eg Support

Services Directory, support options in person and online, provision of groups with qualified counsellors with an emphasis on no cost / low cost /

DRIVERS FOR WELLBEING

We are a wellbeing catalyst working alongside our collaborative partners, such as Kaipatiki Local Board, KCFT &, Kaipatiki Community Network, GPs, Psychologist, Health NZ, Auckland Council, the Fono, Te Puna Hauora, Highbury House and many, many more...

Hearts & Minds

Manawa Ora me te Hinengaro
Strengthening the Wellbeing of People and Communities

The importance of connecting and sharing at local levels is not only to hear and act on (if necessary) concerns raised, but to strengthen the fabric of society. Hearts & Minds philosophy is aligned to when people and communities have access to resources and support with an emphasis on affordability and accessibility then communities flourish.

WHY THE IMPORTANCE FOR COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS:
CHANGING LANDSCAPES, SHIFTING GROUNDS CAN BE HEALTHY
BUT FOR MANY THIS CAN BE OVERWHELMING

Effectiveness of Early Intervention is based in Community

When people have access to support, information and resources, the positive ripple effect across families and communities is vast

- The earliest mental wellbeing intervention is from the ground up
- AS PROVEN IN OUR COST BENEFIT ANALYSIS

A SNAPSHOT — PARENTING & WELLBEING SUPPORT

Two high-quality groups were offered in response to community requests:

Parenting

Depression & Anxiety'

Across the two Groups:

19 men & women attended

- 90% reported that they are coping better in their lives
- 95% found the course content clear and easy to understand
- 100% learned useful tools, skills and strategies

#221 Operational grant to Northart

NORTHART's focus for 2024 is a celebration of the 'Ultra-Local'.

Located in a part of Tāmaki Makaurau that is changing rapidly, and looking towards a complete redevelopment in 2025

NORTHART's programme approaches our cultural and geographic landscape using art to create and extend connections within our local community.

January

NORTHART reopened for 2024 with our Summer Members Show, an unselected show of members' works across all gallery spaces, with work from 29 local artists. The opening event was attended by over 50 visitors.

February

- The 'Summer Members Show' continued supported by engaging Member Artist talks in the exhibition on Saturdays, and a painting demonstration.
- Saturdays at NORTHART recommenced, offering up space and materials for our community to get creative in our recently repaired Community Room.
- Friday Mornings at NORTHART also recommenced, where visitors are offered a tea or coffee at the gallery while they view the shows.

March

- A solo exhibition by environmental artist Laura Donkers opened 24 February. Her exhibition included a free creative 'frottage' activity to all visitors.
- On Saturday 30 March an exhibition of works by North Shore Cambodian-Kiwi artist Lang Ea commenced, alongside a group show of emerging young artists.
