

Industrial cooling tower water system registration

PROPERTY MAINTENANCE AND NUISANCE BYLAW 2015

Industrial cooling tower water system means any cooling tower associated with industrial processes (including scrubbing towers and mobile cooling systems) that are not part of a building as defined in the Building Act 2004 and are not included in a compliance schedule, however, are required to be registered in accordance with Property Maintenance and Nuisance Bylaw 2015 which came into effect 01 November 2015.

Owners of an industrial cooling tower water system:

- must register all industrial water cooling systems with Council by 1 July each year
- notify the Council if the system is decommissioned (within one month of this occurring)
- notify the Council if there is a change in ownership (within one month of this occurring)
- comply with the maintenance, chemical dosing and testing requirements outlined in the bylaw

Failure to comply with Property Maintenance and Nuisance Bylaw 2015 could result in prosecution under the Local Government Act 2002 resulting in a fine of up to $20,000.
