1936	James H Young	Oppose in Part	5280-11	The New Zealand Institute of Architects	RPS	Urban growth	B2.1 Providing for growth in a quality compact urban form	Acknowledge that the PAUP has had significant residential intensification removed from it when compared with the draft Plan. There is a need to relook at all the methods providing for and restricting residential intensification including the spatial location of residential and business zoning, overlays including the volcanic view shaft, height sensitive areas and heritage and character areas if the aspirations of the Unitary Plan are to be achieved [refer to page 9-10/39]. Review and amend the application of different zones based on the examples provided in the submission [refer to pages 1-104/104] and to address concerns raised in the submission.

1936	James H Young	Oppose in Part	5280-15	The New Zealand Institute of Architects	Business (excluding City Centre)	Business	D3 Business Zones / D3.1 General objectives and policies	Add a new policy which reads: "Ensure there is no threat to centres continuing to offer a full range of good and services, particularly food and grocery needs, so as to protect their intended role as the focus of efficient sustainable residential development."
1936	James H Young	Oppose in Part	5280-16	The New Zealand Institute of Architects	RPS	Economic / Business / Infrastructure / Energy / Transport	B3.3 Transport	Amend provisions so that transport modes are listed according to the priority that puts walkability and the quality of the environment first, followed by efficiency.
1936	James H Young	Oppose in Part	5280-17	The New Zealand Institute of Architects	Residential zones	Residential	D1.1 General objectives and policies	Retain, in the introduction, the following sentence: "as the density of development increases, the greater the requirement for good design".
